

Giant Dancing Lady Ginger

Globba winitii 'Grandiflora'

This stunning addition to the Dancing Ladies family produces a much showier bloom than its delicate sister. She produces a long, gracefully arching spike of mauve bracts and tiny yellow flowers that seem to dance in the air! Grows 2' tall with long, lance shaped leaves on short stems. Will go dormant in winter and reappear each spring. Part shade to shade. Moist, well-drained soil.
